

telemarketing should be band if the people are to stinking lazy to dille the phone numbers themselves, and also they should NOT be aloud to use an unavailable listing. if we had been interested in their product we would have called them. we don't want them calling us. they are very pushy and think they don't have to take NO for an answer.we really don't want people calling us for suport or long distance servacr or adds of any kind. leave us and our phone alone. we pay for a private number and yet these places still get it. what good does it do.       thank you.
